

Nila Jennings, MS

Professional Certified Coach

Nila is President of Fusion Coaching and Consulting Group, Inc. and is an Executive and Organizational Behavior Coach with over twenty-five years of experience in management, leadership development, coaching, and consulting. She holds a MS degree from the University of Texas at Dallas in Management and Organizational Behavior, as well as a Master's Certificate in Professional and Executive Coaching.

Her company, Fusion Coaching and Consulting Group, provides leadership training, coaching and consulting services to various organizations including multi-national nonprofits and Fortune 50 – Fortune 500 companies. Nila holds numerous certifications including Professional Certified Coach (PCC) through the International Coach Federation, Certified Behavioral Analyst, and PuMP Performance Measures certification through the Balanced Scorecard Institute.

Nila works with motivated leaders at all levels to help create awareness around their strengths and/or barriers to their success or fulfillment through solution-focused coaching and Systems Thinking. She facilitates workshops in Strategic Planning and Performance Measures for organizational success and differentiation. Nila also works with newly-formed, diverse, or dysfunctional groups to assist them in becoming collaborative, high performing teams.

Her primary research interest is in the Neuroscience of Directed Attention and its effect on adult learning and happiness. Nila is a member of the International Coach Federation, The Association for Talent Management, The Institute of Management Consultants and The Association for Strategic Planning.

For more information, you may contact Nila at: nila@fusionccg.com